Underground irrigation canal

“La acequia soterrada” - Underground irrigation canal

The irrigation canal manages to overcome the unevenness imposed by the “Plaça del Àngel” (Angel Square), thanks to an underground tunnel that runs from “Cueva Santa” Street to the “Holy Family” Square. This tunnel has a very heterogeneous construction, since it was developed as the “Angel Square” was being built. In some sections, the canal was dug directly into the rock and in others it is covered by false vaults of “pedra de rodeno” (red sandstone) over masonry walls. Several direct accesses to the water can still be seen, from the neighbouring houses, and which today are fenced off.

You can access to a virtual tour through the tunnel by scanning the QR code.
